-It is thought that the "Ben Davis" and "Wine Sap" apples now upon the market are vastly inferior to the "Mi lam" and "Janet" of olden time. There is undoubtedly a deterioration in the quality of fruits, and especially so as to apples.

-The urchins of the city have laid aside their base ball bats and taken to stilts. They do this because it is all fun and no work, and though the pay is limited, it shows their willingness to co something, however nonsensical it may appear.

-The marriage of Mr. Fisher Gaines and Miss Mamie Curry at the Christian church Wednesday afternoon attracted an immense crowd of the citizens of the town and county. The ceremony was performed by Eld. Gowen in his usual excellent style and everything was conducted with order and decorum. The ushers were polite and attentive; the music was charming and decorations of the church magnificent. The bride and groom, after receiving the congratulations of friends, took carriages for Danville, where a banquet awaited them at the home of the bridegroom's parents.

-Miss Katie Simpson is spending the holidays with Miss Bessie Marksbury. Miss Mae Ware, of Hopkinsville, is the guests of Mrs. R. E. McRoberts. Mr. P. E. Hughes is visiting relatives here. The menu which graced the table was delightful in every respect. There were over 100 invitations issued and all were unanimous in pronouncing the occasion one long to be remembered. -Among the holiday festivities at Crab Orchard, the one most to be remembered was the musicale at College Home, Friday night, which was to the regret of both teachers and scholars, only enjoyed by the parents and near rela. tives, on account of scarcity in house room. The musicale was a grand suc cess, each pupil acquitting herself very Tho chief feature of the occasion was "Santa Claus' Mistake," which was participated in by every scholar and altho' but little time was consumed in practice, not a mistake occurred and it would not have been more beautifully rendered had there been months of practice devoted to it. ### W. P. WALTON.

ANOTHER Christmas day has dawned upon the earth, bringing with it gladness and good cheer to millions of hearts. No matter how callous it may have become, it is a stony heert indeed that does not warm up and beat faster on the annual recurrence of this day of days, as it recalls the happy time when Santa Claus was regarded as a living, breathing personality, omnipresent, omnipotent and of fabulous opulence, a fat and jolly old gentleman, who drove a team of reindeer to a sleigh filled with everything that childish heart could wish and which it could get by hanging up a stocking. near the chimney that he would descend on his rounds. It is one of the sweetest and most harmless delusions that childhood enjoys. Could anything more charmingly illustrate their abiding confidence and innocence as this stockinghanging and impatience for Christmas morning to come? And yet there are people so unutterably good as to think or rather claim, that it is wrong to encourage the delusion. Hades is full, or will be, of such good goody creatures. It can do no harm and the memory of it will linger lovingly as long as life shall last. What joy could the millions of little hearts have experienced this morning equal to that of awaking and finding their stockings rammed and crammed with what they most desired? While commending and cherishing this innocent myth, we have nothing but ex. ecration for the other custom of celebrating the grandest event in the history of the world by raising pandemonium and doing other heathenish deeds at variance the spirit and traditions of the day. The firing of bombs and other explosive may be well enough for the 4th of July, but it is out of sense and reason to celebrate the natal day of the Savior of the world in such a way. It is strange too that while peace and good will should ani mate the hearts of every human being' the occasion should be embraced by the blood thirsty for deeds of vengeance and murder. May there be a complete change in these things this glorious time and may thankfulness to God and brotherly love have full course and be glorified. Let us not for et that we are celebrating the birth of Him, who brought salvation to the world, a Savior which is Christ the Lord and join in the giad hosanna "Glory to God in the highest and on ace, good will to men."

He found it almost impossible to dispose of them, so had to leave them in the hands of a commission man. It takes a mighty good mule he says, to bring $75, prices being off fully $15 from last season.

-A.S. Tribble shipped a carload of fat cattle to Louisville Tuesday night and ed to settle. one of them was the finest steer ever shipped out of Hopkinsville. He weighed 2,205 pounds and was raised by Ben D. Moore. The price paid for him by Mr. Tribble was 5 cts., or $110.25.-New Era. The same steer brought $6.10 in the Louisville market.

-A good crowd attended Lancaster court yesterday, but very little trading was done. There were about 50 cattle Plug horses and mules were slow at any price. Dick; Gentry bought privately 26 121 pound hogs at 3½c and 22 1,350 pound cattle at 3.371.

Fortunately Mr. Shanks had removed every cent of money from the drawer, but the way they took off overcoats, shoes, hats, bolts of cotton, &c., showed that the scamps must have had a team to haul them away. BY FRANK B. WELCH.

Young Mr. Fadley was in a worry. He had some Christmas presents to buy, and what to get was what worried him. First and foremost, there was Miss Damon, upon whom he was anxious to create an impression-she must have something appropriate and elegant, whether anybody else got anything or not. Then there was his bosom friend and constant companion Harvey, a good fellow who had placed him under obligation times without number-him he could not forget. This being the case, Fadley started out to rummage the stores.

He overhauled all the leading shops in town, and by Christmas Eve had collected what he thought was a pretty sensible lot of presents for an amateur Santa Claus to get together. For the lady of his choice he had a handsome toilet outfit of combs, brushes, powder puffs and boxes, manieure implements. hand mirrors, and no end of other elegant articles for feminine use. These were all inclosed in an elaborately beplushed and inlaid case which was neatly wrapped and all ready to be sent to the intended recipient. For his friend Harvey he had an elegant shaving set, consisting of razors, brushes, cups, hones, etc., done up in a substantial case which was also ready to be dispatched to the home of his friend.

Not daring to trust a messenger with the presents for fear of some mistake Fadley started out himself to deliver them. First he called at Harvey's house, timing his call so as not to eatch his friend at home. With his friend's mother he intrusted the package, she promising that it should not be tampered with until Harvey should open

I WERE IN NEED OF SHAVE."

Never a selfish shadow obscured His | it himself the next morning. Then he called at the abode of Miss Damon. The ring was answered by a servant, who said the young lady was out doing her Christmas shopping. Here was a piece of good luck. Leaving the package with explicit instructions as to its delivery Fadley said he would call, Christmas night, as per previous arwith its waters of healing. His last rangement with the young lady.

There was a big job off his hands, and Fadley mentally patted himself on the back at having done it up so neatly. He pictured to himself the glad surprise of Miss Damon when she should receive the substantial evidence of his man, shall never die. The grandest of all carols, dearest of all angel hymns, regard, and chuckled over the little surprise in store for his dear friend and chum, Harvey. Early Christmas morning Miss Damon received her package, upon opening which she exspirit of Jesus prevails, and each Christ | claimed:

"Well, I never! Just as if I were in see His face through the clouds and the need of a shave. Who ever has been so kind as to furnish me with this tonsorial outfit?" Then her eye caught day! May its lessons and its blessings the corner of a card sticking out of one gladden all hearts and make a truth of of the compartments of the case. This she drew forth and read: "From yours faithfully,

H. IRA FADLEY." "Oh!" said the mischievous young lady; "Mr. Fadley, eh? Well, just wait till be comes this evening. I'll bawl 'Next' at him; see if I don't." Of all the mortified swains that ever got into a pickle Fadley felt the worst when the idol of his heart flashed the shaving tools on him. He was utterly speechless, until it occurred to him that his friend Harvey had his dear one's toilet set and one of the sweetest of little notes that ever a lovesick fellow put together.

"Great snakes!" thought Fadley; "if he reads that note I'll never hear the last of it." Then he explained the mistake and begged off long enough to hasten over to his friend's house to exchange the packages. He found Harvey at home, and as that amiable young man jerked him into the hall he simperingly inquired:

"Is my hat on straight, Ira dear, and how do my bangs look?" "Say!" fiercely ejaculated Fadley, "if you don't shut your head I'll break it for you!" But there was no time to be lost, so Fadley, after duly acknowledging that the cigars were on him, gathered up the toilet set and sped back with it to Mrs. Bride-I suppose you and Fred the one for whom it was intended.

That was not the last of the joke on him, by any means. The thing leaked out, as such things invariably do, and poor Fadley was so annoyed by facetious allusions to his Santa Claus experience that he was compelled to threaten with consequences dire anyone who mentioned the subject.

An Absorbing Girl. "There is no such person as Santa Claus, is there?" asked a small girl of her mother. "Some folks say there is not," was the reply.

"Well, I don't care. I don't like folks who say there isn't any Santa Claus. They never give any nice presents."-N. Y. Journal.

HIS CHRISTMAS GREETING.

BY ELISA ARMSTRONG.

The cemetery gates closed with a clang behind one man as he stepped out into the snow-covered road; it was almost dark and he nearly ran into the other man who stumbled along as if very weary.

"Yonder's th' shortest way into town, isn't it?" the latter asked. "Yep. Most folks want to know th' shortest way out," he grinned. "I'm glad enough to get out o' where was," muttered the other. As he lighted his pipe the flame showed his pale face.

The other man edged away. "Ye Ky. Midland R'y, ain't been in jail?"

"Worse. Penitentiary. Ye needn't be askeered, though-I've had enough. Didn't do it, either, but, ye see, I was kind o' good for nothin', an' the judge was running for reelection, so I went up. Got out for Christmas, though, on account o' good behavior."

"Um, well, so 'tis Christmas timefolks oughtn't to be hard on nobody

"None. This was only adopted; belonged to some poor relation, but be loved her like his own. Died sudden about ten days ago-he took it hard, too; said he was forty-nine and she only about ten, so he'd expected she'd choose his headstone."

"Poor soul! My girl's most ten

"Lemme see," he lit a match and consulted a paper as they walked along, "she was nine years, eleven months and three days old. It was a pretty stone; the boss says: 'Nothing's too good for Mary,' says he."

"Mary! Why, that's my girl's name here, lemme see that!" The match went out and his fingers trembled so that he could not light another. "Mary Lyons was the name," said the stone mason, gently. "Merciful God, my own child!" cried the ex-convict.

Then, through the still night air, the glad church bells rang out.
